MAYOR'S MESSAGE

One of the greatest privileges of serving as mayor is the opportunity to connect with diverse groups throughout our community. Over the past month, I have had the pleasure of engaging with residents of all ages, learning from their curiosity, and sharing insights about our city's inner workings.

Recently, I met with a group of Webelo's Boy Scouts along with their parents and leaders. Our conversation was filled with enthusiasm and thoughtful questions. The scouts were eager to explore our city facilities, particularly the building and the police department. Their spirited interest—even their humorous disappointment that we don't have a jail—reminded me that civic engagement can be both fun and enlightening.

During another highlight, I spent an hour with a group of students from Orion Junior High, in collaboration with a representative from a neighboring city. We discussed topics ranging from my role as mayor to the broader aspects of city government. Their keen interest and insightful questions reinforced my belief that our future is in good hands. These young minds are not only curious about how our city operates but are also ready to become active, informed citizens.

I am deeply grateful for these opportunities to interact directly with our community. Whether through spirited discussions with the Boy Scouts or meaningful dialogues with our youth, every encounter reinforces my commitment to serve and to ensure that our city remains a vibrant, inclusive, and forward-thinking community.

As always, it is a pleasure to serve as your mayor, and I look forward to more engaging interactions that help shape our community's future.

Michelle Tait
